

MAMMALIA

Editor

Michael Prince, LM 868

There are three species listed as new this time, of these, the minke whale species is as a result of the original single species being split into 2 separate species. The new name has not been included in these pages as such, but it maybe that an earlier stamp of the single species actually depicts the new species, in which case that would then become the new species. A species of bat on an miniature sheet from Hungary remains unidentified and may well remain so as it is rather too small to identify.
