

MAMMALIA

Editor

Michael Prince, LM 868

This editions listing of mammals contains 2 new species to stamps. The new bat species on the stamp from Austria is well illustrated and identified. The monkey species on the national parks issue from India requires a little explanation. Each of the 5 values depicts fauna and flora found in a specific national park and though the subjects depicted are quite small most mammals are readily identified. On the stamp labelled for Mudumalai national park there is a monkey species in the surrounding trees. Although still difficult to identify under a magnifying glass, my Insight Guide to Indian wild-life lists the bonnet macaque and common langur as common species in the park and, as the animal depicted looks more like a macaque than a langur, I have taken it to be the bonnet macaque. Hopefully a larger illustration will appear on a stamp at some time in the future.
